Robinson & Cole looks to children in designing 2006 holiday card

Hartford, CT —December 18, 2006—The Connecticut law firm of Robinson & Cole turned to the sons, daughters, grandchildren, nieces and nephews of the firm’s attorneys, lobbyists and staff to design the firm’s 2006 holiday card. Children between the ages of 4 and 14 were called upon to draw a winter scene reflecting the holiday season. Four of the illustrations were selected to appear on the firm’s holiday card.

Southington Thalberg Elementary third grader Brian Tomasco’s illustration was one of the four selected for Robinson & Cole’s 2006 holiday card. Brian is the son of Robinson & Cole Labor, Employment and Benefits Group lawyer, Jean E. Tomasco.

On behalf of Evan’s contribution to the design of the firm’s holiday card, Robinson & Cole’s Managing Partner, Eric Daniels, visited Thalberg Elementary to donate $2500 to the elementary school. “We are delighted to have been able to incorporate children’s illustrations in our firm’s holiday card again this year. The response from our clients has been outstanding,” comments Daniels on the firm’s 2006 holiday card.
