Its Has Been Five Years Since Robinson & Cole Set Sail to New London
*Connecticut Law Firm Expands New London Office

New London — September 27, 2006 — In 2006 Robinson & Cole strengthened our commitment to Eastern Connecticut with an expansion to our New London location to now include offices for six attorneys.

Robinson & Cole originally opened the New London office on June 1, 2001. Five years later, —doubling its office space — the firm’s New London office is resident to Partner Tim Bates and Associate Maria Ackley. Other attorneys regularly working in the office include Partners Ursula Haerter and Daniel Sullivan, Associates John Casey and Dana Horton. Charlie Duffy, Business Development Consultant, is also resident in the firm’s New London office.

Mr. Bates, Ms. Ackley and Mr. Casey practice in the area of land use law; Ms. Haerter concentrates her practice in the area of Labor and Employment; and Mr. Sullivan and Ms. Horton focus on litigation.

“In 2001, we opened this office to serve what appeared to be a growing demand by firm clients for service in this area of the State. The demand for services, in a variety of practice areas, has exceeded our expectations, and we are very pleased to be expanding to meet that need,” comments Tim Bates.

Located at 75 Eugene O’Neill Drive, the firm’s office is situated in the heart of the revitalized City of New London adjacent to Citizens Bank and The Day newspaper and a block from City Hall.
