Lawyers Volunteer through Junior Achievement at Parkville Community School

Hartford – May 9, 2008 – Attorneys from the law firm of Robinson & Cole recently volunteered on behalf of Junior Achievement of Southwest New England, Inc. to teach students at Hartford’s Parkville Community School as part of “Robinson & Cole/Junior Achievement Day.”

This is the second time Robinson & Cole has organized a group of volunteers to participate in a Junior Achievement program in the Hartford area. The volunteer team taught Parkville Community students in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grade classes. During the 2007-2008 school year, Robinson & Cole attorneys taught over 500 students at Hartford elementary schools through Junior Achievement.

Robinson & Cole attorney and JA Board member Christine Bromberg spearheaded the recruiting efforts within Robinson & Cole. Robinson & Cole’s volunteers, all associates of the firm, included: Wystan Ackerman, Kori Termine Wisneski, Christine Bromberg, Nuala Droney, Joel Norwood, Scott Sebastian, and Matthew Spaeder. The firm hopes to stay actively involved with JA and plans to send attorneys to teach at another Hartford-area school in the fall.

About Junior Achievement

Junior Achievement is a not-for-profit organization with 495 offices around the world whose mission is to inspire and prepare elementary, middle and high school students to succeed in a global economy. JA of Southwest New England serves more than 31,000 students in seven Connecticut counties with the help of more than 1,900 volunteers from business and the community. JA uses hands-on experiences to help young people understand the business of life. JA prepares students to make responsible choices through programs about entrepreneurship, work readiness, and financial literacy.
