Robinson & Cole Supports Riverfront Recapture's Bulkeley Bridge Project

Firm donates $1,000 to nonprofit organization

Hartford – May 15, 2008 – The law firm of Robinson & Cole recently presented a $1,000 donation to Riverfront Recapture in connection with Riverfront Recapture's plans to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Bulkeley Bridge later this year. The donation covers the archival expenses related to preserving historical information from the bridge's dedication in October of 1908. This donation underscores Robinson & Cole's commitment to the community. Robinson & Cole has supported Riverfront Recapture, in particular, since its inception.

About Riverfront Recapture

Riverfront Recapture, a private, nonprofit organization, is leading the effort to reconnect metropolitan Hartford with the Connecticut River and provide community access to the waterfront through four beautiful parks in Hartford and East Hartford. Its goal is to restore access to the Connecticut River through the development of parks and public recreational facilities that improve the quality of life for people who live and work in Metro Hartford, to create an attractive destination for visitors, as well as residents, and to encourage economic development in Metro Hartford by leveraging public investment in the Riverfront Parks to attract private investment to neighboring property—creating jobs, generating additional tax revenues, and revitalizing the region.

Robinson & Cole Partner Frank D'Ercole and Managing Partner Eric Daniels present a $1,000 donation to Riverfront Recapture President and CEO Joseph Marfuggi by the Bulkeley Bridge in Hartford. Frank and Joe are shown holding the archived materials.
