Robinson & Cole Announces Attorney Promotions

Hartford — June 9, 2008 — The law firm of Robinson & Cole is pleased to announce the promotion of four attorneys to Counsel. The promotions will be effective as of July 1st.

Caryn L. Daum is a member of the Insurance & Reinsurance practice group in the firm's Boston office where her practice includes representing the firm's property insurance company clients in complex coverage litigation cases, handling matters involving commercial property, homeowners, boiler and machinery, builders risk type policies, and business litigation matters involving corporate disputes.

Ms. Daum serves as panel counsel for the Volunteer Lawyers Project of the Boston Bar Association, where she handles a variety of landlord/tenant disputes on a pro bono basis. She also serves on the editorial board for the Massachusetts Law Review. She received her B.A. from the University of Vermont and her J.D., cum laude, from Suffolk University Law School.

Kristen J. Fallon is a member of the Finance practice group in the firm's Boston office where her practice involves the representation of various lending institutions and borrowers in connection with the financing of real estate projects, portfolio lending, construction lending, loan participations, and loan workouts and restructuring throughout the country.

Ms. Fallon was recently named a "Top Corporate Lawyer" in Massachusetts by Women's Business. She received her B.A., with honors, from Boston College, with dual majors in political science and communications, and her J.D., with honors, from Boston University School of Law.

Matthew J. Lawlor is a member of the Land Use group where his practice includes representing developers, landowners, commercial landlords and tenants, and advocacy groups in matters involving multifamily residential development, transit-oriented and mixed-use development, commercial real estate development and leasing, and land use and planning law.

Mr. Lawlor serves as board president and corporate counsel for the Southwest Boston Community Development Corporation, a community-based nonprofit serving the Boston neighborhoods of Hyde Park and Roslindale. He received his B.A., cum laude, in modern European history from Amherst College and earned a master of regional planning from the Department of City & Regional Planning at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He earned his J.D. from Boston College Law School.

Melissa F. Savage is a member of the Business Litigation practice group in the firm's New York City office where her practice involves commercial litigation, including litigation in the health insurance and managed care industries.

Ms. Savage received her B.A., cum laude, in psychology from the University of Pennsylvania, and her J.D. from the Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law.

Founded in 1845, Robinson & Cole has more than 220 attorneys and over 250 professional staff in eight offices who serve regional, national, and global business clients in traditional practices, such as corporate, financial services, intellectual property, utilities, environmental, land use, real estate development, insurance, and litigation.
