Robinson & Cole Expands in New England with Addition of Three Attorneys

HARTFORD, CT (August 24, 2011) – Robinson and Cole LLP welcomed three new attorneys this month, expanding its Hartford and Providence offices. Glenn G. Rybacki joined the firm’s Hartford office as counsel in the Public Finance Practice Group. Charles W. Normand and Teri E. Robins joined the Health Law Practice Group as partner and associate respectively and will be based in the firm’s Providence office.

“We are pleased that Robinson & Cole continues to grow our public finance and health care practices and Glenn, Charlie, and Teri bring the right credentials and experience to deliver the high quality service our clients have come to expect,” says John B. Lynch Jr., managing partner.

Mr. Rybacki rejoins Robinson & Cole from Shipman & Goodwin, where he was counsel in the Public Finance Group. He represents public and quasi-public entities in all manner of tax-exempt and taxable debt issuance and has served as bond counsel and underwriters’ counsel on several municipal and state financings. Mr. Rybacki has also assisted a broad range of individual and commercial clients in achieving federal and state tax savings and maintaining compliance. He is admitted to practice in Connecticut and New York.

Mr. Normand has experience within the health care industry, as both outside and in-house counsel, and as a federal budget policy analyst with the Library of Congress’s Congressional Research Service. This background enables him to offer clients a practical perspective. Mr. Normand is admitted to practice in Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Ms. Robins joins the firm as an associate who has experience working with health care entities to ensure compliance with federal and state laws and regulations. She works with health care organizations to defend against claims by insurance companies for alleged improper billing policies and represents individual physicians and professionals in the negotiation of employment contracts. Ms. Robins is admitted to practice in Rhode Island and Massachusetts.
