Robinson+Cole Lawyer Named One of Fairfield County Business Journal's "40 Under 40"

Environmental lawyer Megan Baroni recognized at awards dinner on June 25

STAMFORD, CT (July 7, 2015) – Robinson+Cole environmental lawyer Megan E. Baroni has been selected as one of Fairfield County Business Journal's "40 Under 40" for 2015.

The 2015 class of 40 Under 40 was recognized at an awards celebration on June 25 and profiled in a special supplement of the Fairfield County Business Journal on June 22. The honorees were chosen by a panel of judges for their extraordinary leadership qualities, ongoing commitment to personal and professional development, and outstanding accomplishments that have made an impact in their various business sectors.

In his nomination of Ms. Baroni, Robinson+Cole partner Edward V. O'Hanlan said, "Megan Baroni is an accomplished environmental attorney who has excelled in her profession since day one. She is an innate leader and has a great understanding of the implications of political and business decisions, as well as potential solutions for growing business, in Fairfield County and beyond."

Ms. Baroni focuses her practice on environmental litigation, federal and state administrative compliance, and transactional environmental issues. She has represented a variety of clients on environmental cases throughout the country and works frequently with scientific experts to solve complex environmental disputes. Through her legal experience and community involvement, Ms. Baroni has worked to better the environment, including by helping clients to develop remedial strategies that are creative, cost-effective, and protective of human health and the environment. In the community setting, among other projects, she has worked as a member of the Business & Environment Committee of SoundWaters, based in Stamford, to educate the business community about environmental and energy issues that affect the organization's mission of protecting Long Island Sound through education and hands-on interaction.
