HARTFORD, CT (July 19, 2016) – The Legal 500 United States has included Robinson+Cole in its 2016 rankings in the category M&A: Middle Market (sub-$500m). This is the fifth consecutive year the firm has earned this national ranking. Published for more than 25 years, The Legal 500 series provides comprehensive worldwide coverage of legal services providers in over 100 countries.

Robinson+Cole's Business Transactions Group earned the recognition for its transactions in industries ranging from media and technology to manufacturing. Noteworthy matters included representing Nielsen Holdings N.V., a global provider of information and analytics, in connection with the sale of its Nielsen National Research Group, Inc.; Corporate Translations, Inc., a life sciences translation and linguistic validation provider, in connection with its acquisition by RWS Holdings; and Talon Innovations Corporation, a portfolio company of Graycliff Partners LP, in connection with the acquisition of Vulcan Media, Inc.

The following is an excerpt from The Legal 500 editorial:

“Robinson & Cole LLP's clients range from technology startups to multinational corporations, and a significant part of the firm's transactional work is cross-border. Stamford-based Eric Kogan chairs the business transactions group and has significant experience working with emerging, middle-market and multinational clients in the digital media, consumer products, food and beverage, and technology sectors. Stephen Cooper's experience includes advising an e-commerce business on the sale of a majority interest to a private equity investor. Other key partners include Matthew Guanci Jr, Edward Samorajczyk, international practice chair William Sella in Hartford, Michael Wirvin in Boston, and Stephen Hanson in New York.”

“We are honored to once again be included in the Legal 500 US rankings,” said Eric M. Kogan, chair of Robinson+Cole's Business Transactions Group. “Our group comprises experienced lawyers committed to delivering creative and goal-oriented solutions for our clients. Achieving this distinction demonstrates not only that our value proposition resonates in the market place but also that, through our New York to Boston platform, we have developed and sustained a truly national M&A and private equity practice.”
